First Colony Telephone Company Seeks Rate Adjustment

C. J. Logan, President and General Manager of First Colony Telephone Company, announced this week that the company has filed an application for an adjustment in local rates, service connection charges and rates fr miscellaneous equipment.

The request was made to the State Corporation Commission on April 24, 1970, which set an October date for a public hearing.

First Colony Telephone Company has 13,225 stations and 11 exchanges in Virginia. The company serves 9,650 customers in the city of Virginia Beach and the counties of Amherst, Appomattox, Augusta, Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Nelson, Orange, Prince Edward, Rockbridge and Spotsylvania.

Logan said that some of the factors contributing to an adjustment in rates were continued rising costs of equipment and materials, increasing wage levels necessary to attract and retain qualified employees, increasing taxes, and higher interest rates required to obtain new capital financing.

Vepco Seeks 10% Increase

The State Corporation Commission on Monday was told that if the Virginia Electric and Power Company is unable to attract investor capital for its unprecedented construction program, this would have a disastrous effect both on the company and its customers.

Secondary Road Allocation $525,871

Distribution of $74 million for construction and maintenance on Virginia's 42,000-mile secondary road system during the 1970-71 fiscal year has been announced by the State Department of Highways.

It means larger allocations next year for secondary road purposes in each of the state's 96 counties.

Appomattox County will receive $525,871. This includes $348,926 from 4-Factor funds, $87,760 from Matched FAS or Equivalent Funds, $89,185 from Acts of 1964 & 1966 Funds. The county's portion is part of the Lynchburg District's total of $8,404,683.

Altogether, the total sum for Virginia is up about $5 million from the current year's secondary system budget, chiefly as a result of increased income from state revenue sources.

As in the past, by far the largest part of the secondary funds -- $68,061,229 -- will come from state road user taxes. The balance of $5,939,801 will be derived from federal road user taxes.

Virginia's secondary highway system includes the local roads in 94 counties. The other two counties, Arlington and Henrico, maintain and improved their own secondary roads, and receive direct payments from the state for this purpose.

The state secondary system receives 33 per cent of net road funds, except federal interstate payments and revenue provided by the 1966 session of the General Assembly.

Secondary funds derived from taxes levied prior to the Acts of 1964 and 1966 are apportioned among the counties by a method taking into account such factors as area, population, road mileage, and vehicle miles of travel.

The additional revenue provided through legislation enacted by the 1964 and 1966 session of the General Assembly is being apportioned among all 96 counties on the basis of needs in each county as they relate to needs in the state as a whole.

Besides the allotments to the individual counties, the secondary system budget includes $800,000 to be divided equally among the state's eight highway districts for upgrading and replacing inadequate bridges on secondary routes; $5,949 for erosion control involving soil conservation district projects, and $87,379 in state funds to match federal funds for planning.

An additional $750,000 is included in the secondary system budget to develop access roads to recreational areas.

Under other distribution methods, the State Highway Commission later this spring will allocate funds for use on the interstate, arterial, regular primary and urban road systems during the next fiscal year.

Schoolchildren by the dozens and lots of adults, too, write the Appomattox Chamber of Commerce each year seeking all kinds of information. For the school kids, it's mostly a request for anything "free" about the Civil War and Appomattox County.

Roy Moon, president of the Chamber of Commerce, says that one boy wrote asking about the "Silver War." He received his brochure, just like all the rest. Adults write for accomodations, location of campgrounds, sometimes for general information.
